RESPECT LIFE

"Although we may feel unsure how best to comfort those who mourn, we must stand with them in their time of suffering. Miscarriage touches the lives of many people, yet all too often this tragedy remains unaddressed. This lack of response not only often leads to unresolved grief, but also fails to clearly manifest our belief that each person, from conception onward, is precious and unique."

SAINT ZITA

The Easter Season we celebrate, with our coming celebration this Thursday of the Ascension of Our Lord, should lead us to think of the life to come and what we might expect in the "Land of the Living." One help in pondering the imponderable is the study of the saints. Their lives are the "playbook" for eternal life.

This past Wednesday, the Church marked among others the victory of Saint Zita. Born on April 27, 1212 in Tuscany, near Lucca, while St. Francis of Assisi was still living, she lived most of her life from the age of 12 as a domestic servant for the wealthy Fatinelli family. Her older sister became a cloistered nun; her uncle, a religious hermit, was believed by all in town to be a saint. Her family was very poor but rich in spiritual gifts. From the earliest, her mother and father engendered in her a love of her faith.

Her goodness was obvious: she would rise several hours before the rest of the household she served to pray and attend Mass, before devoting the rest of her day to her duties as if they had been assigned to her by God himself. For her goodness, she was treated deplorably by her master and his family and by her fellow servants, often beaten, burdened with work beyond what was expected of other servants, and reviled for her faith. Patience in the face of her persecutors and a transparent love of Christ, however, enabled her to persevere so that eventually the Fatinelli family and entire household were moved to a religious awakening. She became known throughout the city of Lucca for her kindness to the poor, the sick, and the imprisoned. It was said upon discovering that she was handing out the surplus of her master's provisions to those who came to the door, her master found himself helpless to oppose her!

She remained as a servant until she died in 1272 at the age of sixty in the attic she slept in for forty-eight years. She came to be practically venerated by the family as well as by many in Lucca and after her death, over one hundred and fifty miracles had been attributed to her intercessions (and juridically proven at her canonization in 1696). Her body was discovered to be incorrupt after it was exhumed in 1580. St. Zita is entombed in Lucca at the basilica for public veneration. She is the patroness of domestic servants (and of lost keys!).

The effect of Zita's life would inspire centuries later the parents (of royal lineage) of a newborn baby to name their daughter, in the same city the saint lived in, Zita. That Zita married the Emperor Charles of Austria who was beatified in 2004 by St. John Paul II who designated his feast day their marriage date, upon which he told his new bride, "Now we must help each other to get to Heaven." The Empress Zita is herself being considered presently for beatification.

Saint Zita's life in the world's judgement today would be thought to be obscure and inconsequential, but her authentic piety and patience bore spiritual fruit that many can only dream of. This is a quintessential Catholic story, found in the lives of so many of the Church's saints.

SOS!

Almost every Thursday, a dedicated group of volunteers runs our Bingo game. It has become "the only game in town" or the area for that matter and provides fun and an opportunity to get together with friends for many of our seniors. It has also become our major source of fundraising for the parish. Our volunteers could use some help. There are many different jobs to be done and even occasional help is welcome. Please let Father Doughty or the parish office know if you would like to volunteer.
