NEXT WEEK'S SECOND COLLECTION

SAINT JOSEPH'S SEMINARY

"I invite you to prayerfully consider a sacrificial gift to the Annual Seminary Collection, to be conducted next weekend. Your support will provide tuition and room and board for more than 40 seminarians of the archdiocese. It also allows us to continue our solid tradition of excellence in academically training and spiritually forming candidates for the priesthood and diaconate. In short, your support will help prepare young men who will inspire those letters of admiration I receive daily about so many of our great priests.

The priesthood is a life of sacrifice and service. As you know, we do not have as many men making the commitment to serve as priests as we did years ago, and I am so grateful to those who accept the Lord's call. Please assist me in providing for our future priests who will hand on the life and traditions of the Church as they embark on their training to become your priests.

With prayerful best wishes, I am,

Faithfully in Christ,

Timothy Michael Cardinal Dolan"

ABORTION AND POVERTY

by Father Dougherty

Since the United States Supreme Court's 1972 decision in Roe vs. Wade permitting abortion, the bishops of the United States have designated the month of October for American Catholics to be ready to account for the God's love for all life, to pray for end to abortion and all other sins against the sanctity of life, and to do penance for our brothers and sisters who have been victims of the abortion mentality. A few years ago, the New York City Department of Vital Statistics released disturbing statistics. Records from the five boroughs of the city show that in 2009, forty-one percent of all pregnancies were terminated through voluntary abortion. Of the 225,667 pregnancies in the city that year, 126,774 resulted in live births and 87,273 were terminated through various abortion procedures. (Spontaneous terminations, i.e., miscarriages, numbered 11,620). When broken down by race, ethnicity, and geography, the records show that among those of African descent, nearly sixty per cent of all pregnancies in the city ended in voluntary abortion while among Hispanics, forty-one per cent were terminated. The Bronx, the city's poorest borough, had the largest number of abortions, at forty-nine per cent of all pregnancies.

Our nation and state seem mostly untroubled by the fact that most victims of abortion are the poor. It seems that over forty years of abortion on demand has been less of a remedy for the poor than a judgment on the impoverished.

In light of our Holy Father, Pope Francis's wish that Catholics discover/recover a commitment toward helping the poor in their spiritual life, the above statistics suggest that abortion is more a punishment for poverty than a solution. The Reverend Jesse Jackson, in the Right to Life News of January 1977, wrote:

"Politicians argue for abortion largely because they do not want to spend the necessary money to feed, clothe and educate more people. Here arguments for inconvenience and economic savings take precedence over arguments for human value and human life. I read recently where a politician from New York was justifying abortion because they had prevented 10,000 welfare babies from being born and saved the state $15 million. In my mind serious moral questions arise when politicians are willing to pay welfare mothers between $300 to $1000 to have an abortion, but will not pay $30 for a hot school lunch program to the already born children of these same mothers. . . We now, generally speaking, have the ability to feed the peoples of the world but lack the political and economic will to do so. That would require basic shifts of economic and political power in the world and we are not willing to pay that price – the price of justice. The problem now is not the ability to produce but the ability to distribute justly."

So far had the acceptance of abortion as a societal good contradicted the gospel affirmation of God's love for all love that Pope St. John Paul II identified in his encyclical Evangelium Vitae (the gospel of life) the emergence of a "veritable culture of death":

"This culture is actively fostered by powerful cultural, economic and political currents which encourage an idea of society excessively concerned with efficiency. Looking at the situation from this point of view, it is possible to speak in a certain sense of a war of the powerful against the weak: a life which would require greater acceptance, love and care is considered useless, or held to be an intolerable burden, and is therefore rejected in one way or another. A person who, because of illness, handicap or, more simply, just by existing, compromises the well-being or life-style of those who are more favoured tends to be looked upon as an enemy to be resisted or eliminated. In this way a kind of "conspiracy against life" is unleashed. This conspiracy involves not only individuals in their personal, family or group relationships, but goes far beyond, to the point of damaging and distorting, at the international level, relations between peoples and States."

Reverend Jackson knew it from the start: "It is that question, the question of our attitude, our value system, and our mind-set with regard to the nature and worth of life itself that is the central question confronting mankind. Failure to answer that question affirmatively may leave us with a hell right here on earth."
